DESCRIPTION

Like other regions of Africa, Ghana suffers from disease, poverty, and other pressing social issues. While in Kumasi, students will be able to observe and participate hands-on in functioning, effective projects that have been successfully implemented and are positively changing health conditions in West Africa. Field work and activities will take place in Kumasi and surrounding villages. The research site is a cohort of approximately 22,000 people in 20 rural villages approximately 25 kilometers from Kumasi, Ghana. These villages are part of an ongoing collaborative effort between Ghanaian and U.S. researchers to promote health in rural Ghana. The group of researchers, in collaboration with local village leaders, are working together to address pressing health issues including those associated with malaria, maternal health and child mortality. Students will be able to participate in research projects that evaluate different aspects of health in the villages. Students will learn about current global health issues including infectious diseases, general dietary practices, water and sanitation, and access to health care. Students will be working with Ghanaian students and faculty from our partnering University, the Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology (KNUST). They will also have the opportunity to interact directly with village members by participating in field work programs that focus on community health and development. For maximum benefit from the program, it is strongly recommended that they enroll in a global health course (FPMD 6530 for graduate students/FPMD 5530 for undergraduate students) during the Spring semester.

UAC LEARNING ABROAD HANDBOOK

The UAC Learning Abroad Handbook outlines the University of Utah's eligibility requirements, financial policies, conduct standards, administrative procedures, academic expectations, as well as visa and passport guidelines for Learning Abroad Programs. ALL participants are subject to the rules and regulations in the UAC Learning Abroad Handbook. It is every participant's responsibility to read the UAC Learning Abroad Handbook and contact Learning Abroad with any questions.

Global Public Health in Ghana & France

* For maximum benefit from the program, it is strongly recommended that they enroll in the online Preparation for Global Health Service and Learning course taught by Dr. Ty Dickerson during the Spring semester. For more information, please contact Pamela Lyon, pamela.lyon@utah.edu.

The Ghana Learning Abroad Program would like to add an optional 1 week to Paris, France. The Paris, France add-on will give the students the opportunity to see first-hand some of the public health history and see cultural sites of Paris. The students will visit the Institut Pasteur/Musee Pasteur, the Musée Des Égouts De Paris (Paris Sewer Museum), the Catacombes de Paris, the Louvre, the Cathédrale Notre-Dame de Paris, the Arc de Triomphe Paris, and the Eiffel Tower. The program participants and program directors will walk to most places and use the Paris Metro to access the cultural sites.

SUMMER 2017 PRE-DECISION APPLICATION DEADLINE: FEBRUARY 8, 2017

Detailed application instructions are found in the UAC Learning Abroad Pre-decision Application Packet. Additional details are available in the UAC Learning Abroad Handbook. All applicants are required to attend a Learning Abroad 101 session before submitting an application.
